YUKON & THE NORTHERN LIGHTS

AURORA BOREALIS

The scientific explanation for the dancing lights is that they are caused by collisions between electrically charged particles from the sun and gases in the Earth's atmosphere. While this may not sound overly exciting to most people, witnessing the phenomenon in person is absolutely breathtaking. The Northern Lights, or Aurora Borealis, often fill the night sky with a sulphurous-green sheen that ripples and shimmers. They arc into an ebb and flow, slowly growing before suddenly bursting across the sky in dramatic waves. No two displays are ever the same; the lights can appear in shades of red, yellow, or pink, and in various shapes, from patches or scattered clouds of light to streamers, arcs, rippling curtains, or shooting rays that illuminate the night with an eerie, otherworldly glow.
